TEXAS PROS MAY NOT CONTEST ELECTION

Austin, Tex., July 31.—The pros in their conference today continued to make a noise like harmony, the harmony of a chorus. They have a program. It is this: Not to contest the elections in the courts, because they say they could hardly conclude such a contest before the time will have arrived for resubmission of the prohibition question. Instead, they will ask for an investigation by the legislature, in order, they say, that the people may be advised of the frauds, and in order that it may be known what changes should be made in the election laws. A concurrent resolution has been drafted for such investigation. The prohibition senators caused upon this during the afternoon. Once again, all seventeen members attended the caucus and pledged themselves to support the resolution. They are to caucus tomorrow morning, and it is planned to offer the resolution during the day.

It seems possible, but not entirely certain, that the resolution may be passed by both houses. But it seems improbable that there will be an investigation.

Contentions of Ants.

The ants will object to the passage of the resolution upon the grounds that the legislature has no jurisdiction and that the money of the people ought not to be expended for this purpose when another tribunal for this very inquiry has been provided in the amended election law enacted last winter. The ants say that the legislature has no more right to investigate this election than it has to investigate the election of the state treasurer; that its utmost reach would be to investigate the election of governor or lieutenant governor, concerning which it is made the returning board by the constitution. They say that if the prohibitionists think they have discovered something wrong in connection with the recent election they ought to go into court and pay the expenses of a judicial inquiry under the law which they themselves proposed and put through last winter.

Possibility of Veto.

The ants believe that these arguments may succeed in defeating the resolution, since the prohibition majority in the legislature is not by any means as large as that upon the subject of submission.

But if the resolution should pass both branches of the legislature it will not have the force of law unless it shall receive the governor's approval. The prohibitionists are mindful of that fact. Unless the resolution shall reach the Governor before the session is twenty days old he will not have to act upon it at all, and there will be no investigation. If it gets to him earlier it may be set down as certain that he will veto it and that it can not be passed over his veto.

COTTON AND FORAGE CROPS MAKE SPLENDID SHOWING

Oklahoma City, Ok., July 31.—Forage and cotton make a good showing, according to the July bulletin of the State Board of Agriculture issued today, the latter crop having improved 11 per cent since June 25, the date of the last summary. Rains have visited every section of the state. The growing conditions of cotton on July 25 is given as 87 per cent, as against 78 per cent last month. The per cent of acreage abandoned is 11 per cent. Corn's growing condition is reported at 28 per cent, a little in excess of half the per cent for a month ago. Broom corn is doing well with a growing condition of 73 per cent, as against 67.3 per cent last month. The percentage planted on sod is 21.

The comparative acreage of cow peas is 114 per cent, the growing condition 85 per cent; Kaffir corn, comparative acreage 153 per cent, growing condition 88; milo maize, comparative 68 per cent, as against 50.8 per cent last month, and the tons per acre to be cut is one and a half; yield per acre of native meadow is one-half ton; comparative acreage planted for wheat, 87 per cent. Average growing condition of all crops reported in the July bulletin and including the low average for corn is 73.57 per cent.

Threat to Enjoin Prayers.

Florence, S. C., Aug. 1.—Because his prayers for rain during a recent dry spell were followed by such a copious and prolonged downpour that their cotton crop was damaged, neighbors of the Rev. Mr. Moore, a Methodist minister, threatened to get an injunction restraining him from offering such prayers in the future. After much talk the proposed proceedings have been dropped.

Mr. Moore is the father of "Jerry" Moore, the 15-year-old champion corn grower.

CULLINS' ESTIMATE OF NORMAL BALL TEAM

As the normal base ball season has closed after a successful run of games, the boys have all secured good positions at various places, etc.

The writer, who by virtue of ball plays knows a ball player when he sees one, knows there are no two alike even of the same species.

Study the boys and you will find that each has his own ways, his own moods, his own temperament. It is generally acknowledged that a quiet pitcher like Fatty Coffman, one that does not growl or snarl, is far more dangerous than one who is perpetually showing signs of ill temper. A snarling pitcher gives warning, a quiet one will steal up behind his captain flat on his stomach and should the captain turn around he will stop dead and appear to be looking off into the distance.

Winburne Currie, now on the water wagon, who was purchased from the King of Oudh—is very quiet and docile in demeanor. He is never happy unless he is behind the box and who always appeared relieved and refreshed after he had an opportunity of putting out every player.

Frank Jones who is now cutting wood by the cord for his father, our great 1st baseman is more noted for his deceit, craftiness and treachery than any of the other first basemen. Slyness and cunning and the quiet, keen glances from his wicked eyes, in his soft lightning-like movements.

The most deceitful player I ever saw is big Harry Jones, a well grown finely developed animal. He is noted for his beauty of form and coloring, his grace of movement and his villainous personality. I understand Harry goes to Texas in a few days to sell Graphophones.

Base ball players have their individual peculiarities. In the Normal team this season we had a clever performing player name—Hugh Biles. His chief act was sitting on a stool with up-lifted forepaws, when playing Hugh was the most gentle and docile of players. In the school room he had his whims and moods. He greatly disliked to have any strangers come to his room. The boys gave Hugh in his sulky moods onions which gave him relief.

Ralph McMillan was vicious and treacherous. He don't show much affection for his friends. He generally fights shy of his enemies.

Frank McCain is particularly interesting sprout to study. Most second basemen are very conceited; he is not; he is so faithful to respond to his training and he makes such excellent plays. Generally after catching a hot one off the bat he turns a somersault for the benefit of the fans. Punishment had no effect on Frank. He will not even resent it.

Fatty Coffman, our giant pitcher, who weighs less than 500 pounds is noted for his strength, endurance and savageness. Coffman is not to be equalled.

From the moment of his capture to the present time he has always been furious either in wildest rage and despair or sunk in sullen, morose, resentment against everything and everybody. No coaxing with dainties, no kindness has any effect on him whatever.

Bailey Bobitt, our great and only umpire, has his peculiarities. Bailey is gentle as a lamb and his decisions straight as a dog's hind leg, but after all he is a favorite with all the fans, also the young ladies. Bailey is our old stand by even if he is not good looking. Respectfully, Brig.-Gen. T. O. Cullins.

MAN JUMP FROM THE TWELFTH STORY WINDOW

Oklahoma City, Aug. 1.—Tired of living, and desiring to die in as quick a manner as possible, W. A. Russell, city salesman for the J. W. Ward Cigar company, chose the most sensational method ever adopted by an Oklahoma man to kill himself when he hurled himself from the twelfth floor of the Herskowitz building Monday at noon. Death was instantaneous.

The body, robbed of life by the steep descent, struck the top of the two story area-way of the Herskowitz building with a thud and a crash that was heard for over a block.

Russell's skull was split open, both arms and legs were broken and the body was otherwise fearfully mangled.

WILL ENLARGE FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING

Work has begun on an addition to the First National bank building that will extend it to the alley, making the building 140 feet in length. A basement will be constructed in which will be installed a hot water plant for heating the entire building. The business houses of Ada are proving too small for the various occupants, and within the last year ten or twelve have been enlarged and improved.

Fighting Raise of Valuations.

Oklahoma City, Ok., July 31.—E. P. Hill of McAlester, attorney for the Choctaw Indian tribe, was in consultation with members of the state board of equalization, protesting against the increased valuation placed by the board on farm land in the Choctaw country. Fully one-third of the fullblood's land is not taxable, and Judge Hill states the remaining two-thirds has been advanced an average of twenty per cent above the return.

"I undertake to say that ninety per cent of the Indians' land was returned at the full cash value under the law," said Judge Hill, "hence it would be a hardship to make the general advance. Taxation is a novelty to the Indian. When the assessor called and put the questions, the Indians did not understand and as a result the assessors wrote down what they thought the land to be worth. The average increase applies to all counties in the southeast."

Lieutenant-Governor J. J. McAlester was also here as a delegate from a mass meeting held in McAlester yesterday to protest against the fifty per cent raise on McAlester city lots. The town is bottled by segregated land on all sides, which, added to the costly local improvements that had been made, rendered the increase, he says, unfair. Members of the board stated they had acted upon information which they deemed to be accurate, and indicated they were not liable to reopen the subject.

Oklahoma County made its return to the State Auditor today showing a total valuation of nearly sixty-two millions dollars. This is the largest and most wealthy county in the state. Lands are listed at $20 per acre, and town lots at $234 each. The banks are in at 60 per cent.

The board will take an automobile trip through town tomorrow for the purpose of viewing the property before passing upon the returned values.

Setback Given Pension Legislation.

Washington, July 31.—Though all of today in the house was supposed to be devoted to republican speeches against the Underwood cotton tariff revision bill about half of the time was taken up by demands for pension legislation and an ineffectual attempt to secure the passage of the senate amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill providing for an extra month's pay for employees of congress. Abandoning a practice of thirty years' standing, the house turned down the amendment 181 to 25.

Representatives Austin of Tennessee and Rhode Island and Green of Massachusetts denounced the Underwood bill, saying that if passed it would utterly destroy the cotton manufacturing industry in the United States. They urged that there be no tariff legislation without a report from the tariff board, and Mr. Austin declared that the Underwood bill had been drawn by a lot of lawyers who knew nothing about the tariff.

Representatives Stevens of Minnesota and Sloan of Nebraska made pleas for pension legislation. Mr. Sloan said that Representative Sherwood of Ohio, author of the "dollar a day" pension bill of last session, was "a victim of a new Washington system of white slavery" inflicted by the democratic caucus, which had kept him quiet at this session.

Rev. Marshall Dupree was a passenger to Yeager yesterday afternoon.

Good Quail Crop.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 1.—Prospects for an abundant supply of young quail in the southern counties of the state when the quail hunting season opens November 15, were never better according to reports received at that fish and game department.

Deputy Game Warden Edwards of Chickasha reports that his district, composed of a number of southern counties, is full of young quail. He believes they either failed to lay eggs during the hot months of May and June or they are bringing off a second hatch of young birds.

Twelve out of fifteen persons arrested for violation of the fish and game laws during July were convicted according to the report of Warden John Doolin for that month. The amount collected in fines for these violations was $600.

As the open season for quail and other birds approaches an increase in the revenues from hunters' licenses is noticeable. The department during July collected a total of $2,031.50 from this source. The number of resident hunting licenses issued was 1,559, non resident licenses 4, and alien licenses 1.

Valuation of Household Goods.

Oklahoma City, Ok., July 31.—Oklahoma has more costly household goods than the people were willing to admit when giving their property valuations to township assessors. The total figured $10,771,495, or about $6.50 per man, woman and child in the state. The state board of equalization believes that every man ought to have household goods worth at least $10 for himself and every member of his family, and the board advanced the total in the counties equal to that much per person of total population. As a result this class of property was

THE MAUS ENTERTAINERS AT THE CITY HALL

The Maus family will give one of their famous musical entertainments tomorrow evening at the city hall. The entertainment will be under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club and for the purpose of raising the club's subscription to a loan fund that will be used in aiding deserving girls through school. There are some girls right here at Ada who could be greatly helped at a time when they most need it and if the public will give this entertainment the support it deserves, a long step in the right direction will have been taken.

Increased to $16,565,250, or nearly $100,000. The same plan was adopted in figuring farm machinery, tools, etc., which had been returned in the aggregate as being worth $3,817,831, and the board concluded that no farmer had less than $4 worth of implements, tools, etc., per member of his household, and that increase meant about $600,000.

In computing the farm machinery tax only, the population outside the cities, towns and villages was employed, and the compilation shows that nearly one-third of Oklahoma's population reside in towns, and two-thirds, or 1,106,903 in what is commonly referred to "the country."

SAGE AND SULPHUR CURES DANDRUFF

Restores Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Itching Scalp Quickly Stopped.

This applies to Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, for if it does not do exactly what is claimed for it, the sales would naturally drop off. However, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy does "make good," as evidenced by its daily increasing sales. Druggists say that this preparation gives the best satisfaction of any hair remedy ever sold. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It removes dandruff, strengthens the hair, gives new life to dull or parched hair, and gradually restores gray hair to natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

The Sugar Trust and the Mormons

Dead men tell no tales. Henry O.
Havemeyer, founder and for thirty years czar of the sugar trust, can make no retort to the minions now charging to him all the illegal acts of the trust. It is hardly to be doubted, in view of the record, that Havemeyer was an undesirable citizen.
But his partners, of a few years ago,
who now charge to him every mis-deed of thirty years' history of sugar monopoly, would seem to pay him very high tribute. That one man could devise so many projects in corruption and distortion of better ideals and impose his will so absolutely on such a horde of weak-willed subordinates, is at least difficult of belief.

It is little more than a year since a sensational magazine story of partnership between the sugar trust and the Mormon church was denounced as the acme of muckraking. Yet under the cold analysis of congressional investigation it is admitted to be true. No less a person than Joseph F. Smith, president of the church, has told the Hardwick investigating committee of the House of Representatives, the story of the partnership between Mormonism and the trust.

The Mormons had established beet sugar factories in the effort to develop their country and enrich their people. They needed capital. Havemeyer had it. Havemeyer saw a future in sugar, or said he did. The evidence is rather that he saw the need of controlling it in order to make it fight his battle for high protection.
Anyhow, Havemeyer offered to provide the Mormons with the capital they needed if they would join forces with him. They did. Thereafter the church named the directors and provided the "front" to the beet-sugar corporations in which they were jointly interested, while the sugar trust made the policy.

It was a great combination. The trust made its pleas for protection through the beet-sugar people, who insisted that a promising infant industry was in need of sustenance.
On the pretext of serving beet sugar, the tariff schedule was adjusted to the needs of the refining trust and to its designs of gathering in immense profits. The Mormon end of the partnership was handsomely cared for by being assigned a great territory in which to distribute its products.—Exchange.

Good Roads in Oklahoma.

The question of good roads is one which interests, more or less, every citizen of Oklahoma, and the question of permanent roads is one yet to be solved.

From a scientific standpoint, this subject has been studied in Oklahoma only a few years. Mr. L. C. Snider, Assistant Director of the Oklahoma Geological Survey at Norman, has just gone to press with a report on Road Materials and Road Conditions in Oklahoma.

In addition to discussing the formation and maintenance of the different kinds of roads, the report discusses technically the best materials with regard to the particular locality.

One section of the book is devoted to conditions of counties, discussing them individually with regard to the present condition of their roads and the possibilities of their improvement.

This report will be available to the public in a few weeks; also any other information applied for.

CHAPTER X. Mr. Medders and Harry have a confidential talk following dinner and Harry tells him that to save a woman's honor he is unable to explain any of the incidents that had occurred but will reveal everything later. Mr. Medders has the utmost confidence in Harry and accepts his explanation. The Count arouses Mrs. Blazes by throwing pebbles against her window from the garden.
She begs him to help her to escape from the house. As they are talking the General and Harry come out on the porch and the General explains that he was forced to return as his conscience troubled him for the way he had acted towards Harry. He admits to Harry that he has carried on a flirtation with Daphne and Mrs. Blazes overhears their conversation.
Harry and Lucy take a stroll in the garden and she insists on having an explanation. He refuses and says he will tell her all later. He asks her to be his wife but she refuses until he can clear himself.

with a weary air.
"Where have I heard of hats?" he said. "I've ordered a hat for you.
Daphne, the daffy daffodil, is making one for you. She'll have it here before long."
"That's dear of you!" Mrs. Blazes smiled, appreciatively.
"How do you know what it costs?"
he asked, grimly.
Mrs. Blazes clasped her hands mel-odramatically and went on:
"And I'm so worried about my husband!"
"You are? You ought to be," Harry told her. "And he's worried about you—and I'm worried about both of you. Shut the window, and let me think."

She closed her window, and he resumed his meditations.
"Sometimes," he muttered, "it's against a fellow to be innocent. I could have straightened this out in two minutes if I had been guilty."

The front door opened, and Lucy appeared. She glanced down at Harry and smiled.

"May I come out with thee awhile?"
she asked. "It is so peaceful out here —everything seemeth so calm."
"This is the headquarters for peace and calm," Harry observed, pleasantly, rising. Lucy came down the steps and sat on the lawn seat while Harry leaned over the table beside her, looking down at her.

"Well," Lucy asked, "what can thee say?"
"I can't say anything yet," he answered. "I can only ask you to trust me until I can explain everything."
"But surely thee can explain everything now."

"No. Not yet. I don't understand it myself yet."
Lucy's face changed, and Harry went on:

"Later, I'll tell you everything. I can't now, Lucy, because some one else is involved."

"I saw her," Lucy said, coldly.
"I don't mean that way, Lucy," he protested. "What you saw may have a peculiar look—"

"Indeed, she had!" Lucy asserted.
"But you must remember that often there is an unsuspected skeleton in the closet," Harry continued, manfully.

Lucy pursed her lips scornfully.
"Skeleton, indeed!" she said. "That skeleton weigheth at least a hundred and thirty pounds!"

Harry laughed nervously, and pleaded:

"Now, listen, Lucy. Won't you take a walk with me?"

"Well," Lucy asked, "What Can They Say?"

my word that everything is all right, so far as I am concerned?"
"I might take thy word, but thee cannot explain so easily to Cousin Socrates nor to father."

"Cousin Socrates has been in the attic writing sonnets about you all evening, and I have talked with your father, bless his good old heart! He believes in me, and he is willing to trust me."

"So do I believe in thee, Harry—but thee cannot know how sorry I am that this has happened. I regret it."

With an earnest effort to turn her mind to a lighter view of things, Harry asked:

"So you regret it?"
"I do—very, very much."

"Then, if you regret it very, very much, I'll forgive you this time," he laughed, seating himself and taking her hand.

She took her hand away quickly and jumped to her feet in indignation.

"How can thee jest at such a moment?" she cried.

He rose and followed her.
"I shouldn't have joked," he said, humbly. "Lucy, you are not a city girl—and I'm glad of it—but you are apt to judge things too much on appearances."

Lucy turned and looked at him with a pathetic seriousness in her eyes.

"Until this morning, Harry," she said, "I wanted to be a city girl. I thought the little town where I have lived was a pitiful place."

"But it had you in it," Harry reminded her, gently.

"I am beginning to understand," Lucy said, "that here—appearances are everything—but there isn't any everything. In the country, there is everything—and that takes the deceit from the appearances."

"Why, you're a genuine little philosopher," Harry said.

"We have the blue sky in the daytime back there," Lucy continued,
"and here thee have clouds and smoke.
There we have the stars at night, here thee have electric signs. There we get up at sunrise and the little birds sing us a welcome from the trees, but here—"

"Here the folks stay up until sunrise and eat the little birds before that," Harry finished for her. "You don't want a city home, then, Lucy?"

"I want a home where the heart does not have to be hidden," she told him.

"And so do I. I want a real home, with the best little girl in the world as my wife."

There was no mistaking his meaning. Lucy looked at him for half a minute, then said:

"When thee have explained, Harry."

CHAPTER XI.

Fifteen minutes later Count von Fitz cautiously crept beneath the window and whistled. Mrs. Blazes did not answer. He whistled louder. Still no answer.

"If you are gone, I'm glad," he said.
"Cheer me by not replying."

But no such cheer was in store for him. Mrs. Blazes noiselessly opened the window and whispered:

"Sh! Be careful! Did you get my hat?"

"Not yet," the Count told her. "Dey haff to make him. I wouldn't trust dot Daffie woman. I vent to anudder hat place. Der name is Tereese."

"But they won't know the model,"
Mrs. Blazes feared.

"I eggplain him perfectly. I tell her a shape like a smashed balloon, yellow on der outside mid a garden of red poppies."

"Red poppies, you silly man!"
"Poppies or poppies—dey look chust as bad to me from now on."

"You'd best go right back and stay there until it is finished," Mrs. Blazes suggested.

"No. I told dem to sent it here, so I make sure I get it."

"That's good," she said, with a tone of relief.

"Now you come right oud und vender hat comes I giff it to you, und ader you go."

"Come out?" she asked sarcastically. "Am I an aeroplane?"

"Lissen. Make a rope yet, und I pull you oud."

"An idea!" she exclaimed with delight. "I'll tear up the sheets and things in here, tie them together in a rope, and let myself down."

"Splendid! I go und vatch for der messenger mit der hat."

The Count strolled away, while she closed her window.

A young couple came walking slowly through the flower garden. It was Pigeon and Carolyn. The twilight spell had been cast upon them. Arm in arm, silently they strolled until they neared the bench.

Suddenly Pigeon said:

"Let's sit down here. I've got to see Harry through his racket, you know"—evidently continuing a conversation which had lapsed some moments before—"but after that—"

He looked down into Carolyn's eyes.

"After that?" she asked, softly.

For Carolyn had all a woman's intution, in spite of her young years, and she diagnosed the symptoms of an approaching proposal. She did not intend to accept him, but no woman will allow a proposal to get away from her.
Proposals to a woman are as the scalps the Indian brave ties to his war belt.

"After that," said Pigeon, beginning to sit down, "I can look after my own affairs. And I—"

An ominous, rippling sound came.
Mrs. Blazes was beginning to make her rope, but the young couple, of course, knew nothing of that. Pigeon straightened up with a jerk and tried to look unconscious. He did not know what had given away. Carolyn tried to smooth over his embarrassment by saying:

"Isn't it a lovely evening?"

Then she began to sink gracefully upon the seat, when an even more ominous rippling sound was heard.
Carolyn abandoned her project with due and proper suddenness, while Pigeon mopped his brow, and said, in flustered tones that he tried to make sound matter-of-course:

"I thought earlier today that we might have some rain."

He lifted his foot to rest it carelessly upon the bench, not caring to try to sit down any more, but with the movement came a terrific rip as though something had torn loose forever.

He dropped his foot and tried to whistle a popular air.

Carolyn looked the other way and became nervous.

"I can't do a thing with my hair tonight," she observed, lifting her arms to pat it into shape.

There's Not a Store In Town

That Would, In Six Months From Now Be Half as Important as it is Now, if it Should Stop Advertising During That Time!

Isn't that perfectly true—perfectly logical? Can you imagine any store of which it would not be true?

And, if true, does it not follow that the re-verse of the proposition is true, too—that the store that doubles its accustomed advertising for the next six months will also double its ac- customed store growth for that period?

And does not this, also, apply to any store you can think of in this town?

HOW F. C. SIMS WORKED JUSTICE BROWN

Yesterday F. C. Sims called on Judge Brown to perform a marriage ceremony for a couple waiting in the county judge's office. The justice gave his head a swipe with an old whisk broom, gave a tug at his tie and with his best smile went in to perform the cheerful task. All went off without a hitch. The only thing that was the least out of the ordinary was the fact that the contracting parties nodded their heads instead of making oral responses, but as that was the first time they were married, the judge thought that was due to embarrassment. Later, however, he learned that not a word of his specially prepared ceremony had been heard by either since both were deaf and dumb. Unknown to Judge Brown Mr. Sims was standing behind him giving the sign to the couple at the proper time, and in that way made the marriage a successful affair. Judge Brown was a trifle disappointed to know that his eloquence and good advice had not been heard, for he prides himself on being an expert welder of hearts and his lecture is guaranteed to make the union divorce proof.

We have lately overhauled our mill and installed some new machinery including the latest up to date methods in modern milling which enables us to make the clearest flour that is possible to be made from wheat.

In order to introduce our new flour and convince you that there is no better made we will sell until further notice at $1.00 and $1.10 a sack.

Patronize Home Industries.

All things being equal people should patronize home industries thereby helping to build up your city and county.

But we don't want to take advantage of that fact in order to sell you inferior flour. Ada flour stands on its own merits and is second to none in the state. Remember that our mill pays taxes in your city and county.

So try our flour and if you like it continue to buy it thus helping to build up a home institution.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuel, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '30, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. ONE DOLLAR BOTTLES GUARANTEED. RAMSEY DRUG CO.

Two Ways of Looking At It

After buying that bill of lumber you are going to need, and using it, you may be either glad or mad. It depends on whether you buy good, dry lumber from us, or carelessly accept lumber that's only half seasoned, from somebody who's not so particular about the quality of their stock as we are.

There are no two ways about it: You can buy any kind of lumber or building material to better advantage right here than you can anywhere else in this part of the country. Let us make you an estimate on what you want.

GOOD ROADS BOOSTERS MEET AT OKLAHOMA CITY

Geo. Kice is back from Oklahoma City, where he attended the big gathering of good roads advocates yesterday. He says it was a most enthusiastic meeting and that the boosters along the proposed route of the road are in dead earnest about it. Citizens of Bliss and Ponca were on hand parading with big stalks of corn. Other places brought brass bands with them and the day was made one to be remembered.

The road will pass through Kay, Noble, Logan, Oklahoma, Cleveland, McClain, Garvin, Murray, Carter and Love counties, probably with branches through Johnson and Bryan counties on the south. While the route has been tentatively chosen it has not been approved as yet by State Highway Commissioner Sidney Suggs, who stated Monday that he will at once traverse the route. From the north the route runs down the east side of Kay county to Noble and via Perry to Guthrie, through Oklahoma City, Norman, Lexington, Purcell, Maysville, Ardmore and through Love county to Red river. The west side of Kay county also wants the road and offered a minority report. That matter will be determined by the county.

If you sit in a cool draft when you are heated and get a stiff neck or lame back, you will be looking for something that will ease the pain. Fix your mind on BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT and don't be talked out of it because it is the best pain relieving liniment you can get anywhere. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Ramsey Drug Co.

Preachers Build Church.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 1.—Fifteen pastors in hood carriers' garb and armed with saws and hammers raised and covered the rafters and boarded the front, rear and side walls of a building for the Minnehaha Methodist Episcopal church here by working from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, with an intermission of one hour for lunch, which was served by the women of the congregation. John Ward, a journeyman carpenter directed operations and was assisted by Rev. H. E. Greening, pastor of the church. Rev. H. C. Kohr, pastor of Vincent church, flattened his forefinger in driving a nail, but continued work until the job was finished. Rev. Henry Brown, president of the Methodist Ministers' association, called to cheer the pastors, but did not assist them. The men of the cloth worked rapidly. Trained craftsmen will do the interior work and finishing and it is expected to have the building in readiness for dedication about the middle of August, when pastors from all over the Pacific Northwest will be in attendance.

GOOD INTEREST AT TENT MEETING

The meeting at the tent west of the city hall continues with interest. Crowds have been good with the best of attention. Song service is excellent. We extend a cordial invitation to all to hear Bro. Young. He is here to do no one any harm, but will seek to do good to every one. All Bible questions will be answered that pertain to present and future eternal well-being.

Death of Noted Pioneer of Texas.

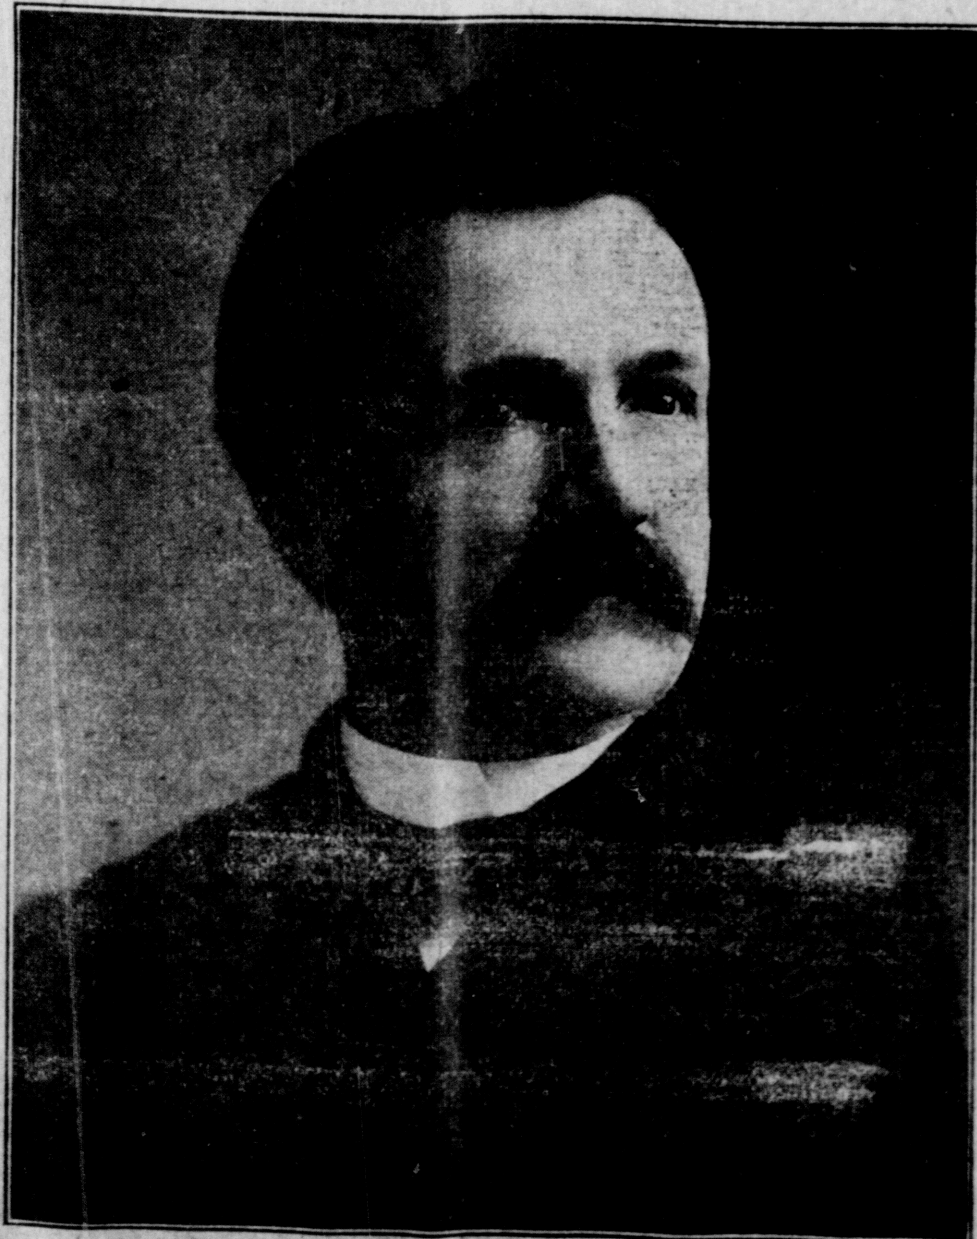

Gainesville, Tex., July 31.—Capt. Bob Bean, 73 years of age, a resident of Cooke county for about sixty years and familiarly known throughout North Texas as "Uncle Bob" died yesterday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Peary, after an illness of several months, during which time he had made several trips to Marlin, Tioga and other resorts, to restore his health. A few days ago paralysis began to take hold of him and ended in death. At 5 o'clock this morning the remains, accompanied by relatives and friends, were taken across country to Forrestburg, thirty miles west of here, where he had especially requested that he be buried. His second wife is buried there. The funeral services were conducted by the Masonic Lodge of which he was a member.

Capt. Bean was born in Tennessee and came to Texas in his early teens, located in Cooke county. It was during the days of Indian raids and he grew up helping his fellow frontiersmen in self-defense against the redskins. He joined the Confederate forces when the Civil war broke out and spent four years in the defense of the Southland. He was lieutenant in Company B of the famous Eleventh Texas Cavalry.

After the war Capt. Bean was again prominently identified with the frontier history of North Texas and struggled to restore conditions during the reconstruction periods.

Capt. Bean was married three times. There were no children from his first marriage. Three children were born of his second marriage as follows: Attorney George Bean of Lubbock, Willie Bean of Amarillo and Mrs. R. S. Cearnal of this city. There were no children from his third wife, who died about seven months ago. He leaves two step-children, daughters of his third wife, Mrs. Pearl Treaves of Canyon city and Mrs. Del Mitchell of Gainesville. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary Peary of this city, in whose home he spent the last days of his life.

Apply a cotton cloth wet with BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT to all wounds, cuts, burns, sores or blisters and note its wonderful healing power. It is prompt and very effective. Price 25c, 50c, and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Ramsey Drug Co.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

Every person afflicted with an old sore realizes, sooner or later, that the ulcer exists because of bad blood; the character and condition of the place depending on the nature of the blood infection. Virulent impurities in the circulation produce angry, discharging ulcers, while milder, inert germs are usually manifested in the form of indolent sores or dry, scabby places. External treatment can never cure an internal trouble, therefore no one should depend upon salves, washes, lotions, etc., alone to cure a chronic sore. It is necessary to remove the cause before the place can heal. S.S.S. heals Old Sores by going down into the circulation and removing the impurities and germs which are responsible for the place. In addition to purifying the blood S.S.S. enriches this vital fluid so that the irritated flesh around an old sore is naturally and thoroughly stimulated, and a permanent cure results, because every morbid influence has been removed. S.S.S. is the best of all blood purifiers and therefore a natural remedy for old sores. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free. S.S.S. is sold at drug stores.
